

The Pakit Rak was the first major accessory we purchased for our Gold Wing, and by far it has been the most valuable. The folks at Dixon Y Machine have done themselves and the Gold Wing community proud! It's been a great way to avoid having to pull a trailer and deal with the riding restrictions that trailers offer.

First, with the reflector still on the bike and no rack.

Then I pull the reflector out of the receptacle.

The rack is ready to be inserted into the receptacle.

The rack installed and secured with pin.

The pack.

The pack with the securing bar...

Sliding the securing bar through a slot in the end of the rack, through the reinforcements sewn in the bottom of the bag and out the slot at the other end of the rack.

Voila! Ready to roll! Note, you can't see it but there is a lock on the right end of the securing bar that keeps it from sliding back out of the rack. When you get to your destination you simply remove the pack and take it with you.
